Unstatus Quo
The Truth About Wholeness
and Disability

When you focus on someone's disability you'll overlook their abilities, beauty and uniqueness. Once you learn to accept and love them for who they are, you subconsciously learn to love yourself unconditionally.

The Truth About

Wholeness and

Disability

According to Science of Mind, every person is an individualization of the One Spirit, regardless of physical or mental abilities. Wholeness is not determined by physical conditions but by recognizing the inherent spiritual essence within each individual. Disabilities and differences are understood as unique expressions of the One Spirit, and physical or mental conditions do not limit a person's worth or spiritual potential. Embracing this perspective fosters inclusivity, values the contributions of every individual, and challenges societal norms. We are called to dismantle barriers and create spaces of love, acceptance, and genuine inclusivity in our spiritual centers and beyond.

An Introduction to Our New Staff Minister and Speaker

Reverend Rachael Dilling

With a passion for helping others and a deep commitment to spiritual growth, Rachael Dilling is a dedicated hospice chaplain, licensed CSL minister, and also owns an independent living home for senior women based in Las Vegas. Her educational background in Workforce Education and Consciousness studies serves as the foundation for her work in providing comfort and guidance to those in need. In addition to her professional pursuits, Rachael cherishes time spent with her family and friends, enjoying good food and meaningful conversations. Her holistic approach to caregiving and spiritual guidance sets her apart as a compassionate and insightful leader in her community.

Special Note: Core Council offered Rev Rachael Dilling a Letter of Call at the August Core Council Meeting. We hope you got to meet her at the July and August In-Person celebrations. And we will delight in her talk this week and monthly henceforth.
